Crowd Watching Arrest of Gallagher (No. 2) By Hoboken Detectives On Orders of "Big Bill" Edwards (No. 1), Street Commissioner of New York, Who Had Just Beaten the Prisoner Severely, Thus Diverting a Second and Third Shot and Saving the Mayor's Life.

WILLIAM H. ("BIG BILL") EDWARDS. He Was Hit in the Arm By the Second or Third Bullet of the Would-Be Murderer.

MAYOR GAYNOR AND PRESIDENT MONTT OF CHILE. The Chief Executive of the South American Republic, On the Left, Talking With the Head of New York City a Moment Before the Shot Was Fired.

never knew why. They didn't tell me. "I haven't any money now and the county will have to pay for my lawyer. That's all I have got to say."

Gallagher was then asked point blank why he shot Mayor Gaynor. The prisoner gazed at the floor and made no reply. He then asked for some tobacco.

"I'm nearly dead for a smoke," he said, "and I haven't any money."

Because of his lack of funds Gallagher has to be content with the prison fare, which is extremely meagre.

Gallagher Eats Little.

Gallagher spent a wakeful night, alternately tossing on his cot, pacing up and down the cell, muttering to himself.

When asked what he would have for breakfast, he said he did not want any. A cup of coffee and a roll was given to him and he was urged to eat. He swallowed about half of the roll and drank the coffee. After breakfast he sat for some time with his head between his hands.

He complained that the contusions on his face and body, received in the fight with "Big Bill" Edwards following the shooting, pained him greatly, and Dr. Hastings sent him a lotion to apply to them.

Legal Proceedings.

Prosecutor Garvin today issued more than twenty subpoenas for witnesses to the shooting, and announced that James W. McCarthy, assistant prosecutor of pleas, would assist him in Gallagher's trial.

The grand jury will be asked to indict Gallagher for an attempt to kill Mayor Gaynor, and also for atrocious assault on Street Commissioner Edwards, of New York city, who seized the assassin and was wounded.

If Gallagher is convicted on both charges he can be sentenced to serve twenty-four years and pay a fine of $5,000, according to the New Jersey law.

If Mayor Gaynor should die he will be placed on trial for murder in the first degree, the penalty for which is death in the electric chair.

Acting Mayor John Purroy Mitchell arrived at the hospital shortly before 1 o'clock, but was told by the doctors that they did not think it advisable for him to see their patient.

Mayor Gaynor's brother and his son Rufus were admitted to the bedside for a moment.

"I am feeling fine," the mayor said to them, "and I hope soon to be up and about."

Sleeps Three Hours and Is Cheerful.

The mayor slept three hours. When he awoke this morning he appeared much improved and was in a cheerful mood.

Dr. William J. Arlitz, who had been in attendance throughout the night, never leaving the sick room, was relieved at dawn by Dr. Ernst J. Lederle, health commissioner of New York city.

At that time Mr. Gaynor was given a bowl of chicken broth.

"That tastes good," he said. "I hope I'll be able to eat something else pretty soon. I'm quite hungry."

reduced to a minimum by the prompt treatment which Mr. Gaynor received. According to statements made today by gunshot wound experts, the heat in the barrel of the pistol would in all likelihood kill all poison germs, even were the bullet coated with copper salt.

The copious bleeding which followed the entrance of the bullet is also regarded as a favorable factor. Had the bullet been of larger caliber in all likelihood the wound would have proved fatal as it would probably have been deflected to the carotid artery. Half an inch deflection would have caused death.

It becomes necessary today to curtail the injections of strychnine which were given immediately after the shooting, and with which shock was ward off.

Effects of Shock Feared.

Because of his age—Mr. Gaynor is 58—the effects of the shocks caused almost as much fear to his doctors as the prospect of complications.

Always an athlete he has been in better physical condition than ninety-nine per cent of the men of his age. The heavy work of the mayor's office, however, has done much to wear him out in the seven months since he took office. Although he has walked several miles every day, always making the journey from his Brooklyn town house to the City Hall in Manhattan on foot, traces of fatigue were noted yesterday when he stood on the deck of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse a moment before Gallagher fired on him.

Throughout the night a crowd waited about the hospital, anxious for any word concerning the mayor. At times it dwindled to but a handful, but the nucleus was ever present.

Crowds Are Dispersed.

With the coming of day, the crowd swelled. A special guard of police was thrown about the building, after the Mother Superior of St. Mary's had asked that the curious be kept away, and the loiterers were sent on their business.

At near-by corners, also, traffic policemen were stationed to enforce the order issued by Chief of Police McAdams, prohibiting vehicle traffic near the hospital while the mayor is there.

Those connected with the hospital which is conducted by the Sisters of St. Francis, today declared that there was no basis for the complaints of some of the mayor's friends as to his reception.

Commissioner Thompson, of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, one of the party with whom the mayor took his breakfast, today censured the institution.

Criticizes Hospital Methods.

"We were kept four or five minutes at the entrance before our ring was answered," said Thompson. "Then a nurse came and said no doctor was in. Presently an internist sauntered out to us, smoking a pipe."

"When we told him the mayor was shot, he said, 'I will telephone and see what I can do. I will try to get some one immediately.' Apparently there was no doctor in the hospital."

"The mayor's son and I had to help undress him. Then Dr. Arlitz, who is a city visiting physician, arrived."

The hospital was crowded all night long with reporters. The night was uneventful. Dr. F. C. Wolf, of the hospital staff, appeared about 2:30, and when asked for the latest news from the sick room said that the mayor's tongue was thick, and although he wanted to talk he had trouble in doing so.

The private room occupied by the mayor is on the fourth floor of the hospital.

Doctors Satisfied With Condition.

Discussing the case informally this morning several of the doctors expressed their satisfaction with the progress made by the mayor.

It becomes necessary today to curtail the injections of strychnine which were given immediately after the shooting, and with which shock was ward off.

Blood Poison Is Real Danger.

Dr. F. C. Wolf, visiting surgeon of St. Mary's, said today:

The bullet entered directly under the mastoid bone. It passed between the jugular and the carotid artery, and evidently grazed both of them. One part of the bullet lodged near the entrance and one passed through the tongue toward the point of the jaw bone. His speech was slightly affected.

The mayor's heart and constitution were affected by the shock, so that opales could not be given at once, for operation, for fear the effect on the heart would produce death.

The greatest danger at present seems to be blood poisoning from the decay of the tissue which has been entered.

The fear of a hemorrhage from either the jugular or the carotid caused some anxiety. This morning it was announced, however, that there seemed little possibility of such a complication having occurred.

After spending the night at the town house of her father at 20 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, Mrs. Harry K. Vinz, eldest daughter of the mayor, accompanied by her husband and brother Norman, reached St. Mary's Hospital early today.

The party there joined the injured mayor's wife and other members of the family. They will spend the day at the hospital in a private room set aside for them, and will be constantly informed of the condition of the mayor.
